

Zephyr, the wonderous wind maker

The battle of one brave, bright boy and his faithful pet seagull to save the world from one evil Queen and her poisonous pollution.

FEDERICA [REDACTED]
3 Yellow, Hove Junior School

[REDACTED]

One breezy afternoon, Zephyr and his faithful seagull pet Squeaky were resting at a charming French seaside cafe enjoying a well-deserved healthy cucumber smoothie. Zephyr had spent the whole morning surfing around the sky on his extraordinary hoverboard summoning wind to power up the wind farms. He had also used his phenomenal Hoover to suck up a huge patch of black, smelly pollution they had found near the windmills. The pollution was so thick that the sky was grey and the windmills had stopped working. Zephyr and Squeaky didn't know where the pollution was coming from.

Suddenly, Squeaky started to squeak like a broken violin. Squeaky always squeaked when it smelled pollution! In the distance, near the wind farm they spotted the evil Queen Fossila Fuel. Queen Fossila was the most hideous and wicked person in the whole wide world. She cherished pollution and she despised clean air and wind. Clean air made her choke and wind messed up her oily, creepy hair. Greedily, she owned all the fossil fuel farms in the world, which made her very rich. She was petrified that the new wind farms that made green electricity without making pollution were going to be more popular than her fossil fuel farms. For this reason, she whizzed around the world using her devilish magic wand, which turned anything into fossil fuel, to destroy wind farms.

Zephyr was deeply distressed because he knew that wind farms were the only way to save our planet. Without wind farms the only alternative to make electricity was to use Queen Fossila's horrendous fossil fuel farms which clogged the air with horrible pollution. Zephyr had heard many frightful stories from his faithful pet Squeaky which itself had heard stories from other birds coming from all sides of the world.

Everywhere where fossil fuel was burnt, thick clouds of horrible smoke were turning the lovely blue sky into dark grey blocking the sunlight coming through. Starlings murmured that without sunlight, plants are not growing and there are no insects to eat. Toucans told that their resplendent rainforest is becoming as dry as a desolated desert. Penguins declared that the icebergs are melting and that the fish are dying.

Sparrows cried that the climate is changing all over the world. Squeaky concluded "Pollution is changing our planet and we need to stop using fossil fuel". Zephyr screamed "I need to stop Fossil Fuel right now! If I don't, the world is going to be ruined forever".

In less than no time, Zephyr got on his hoverboard to intercept Queen Fossil Fuel. But before he could reach her, she had disappeared in a cloud of polluted black smoke and was flying across the English Channel to destroy the next wind farm, the famous Rampion Offshore wind farm. As quick as lightning, Zephyr and Squeaky chased Queen Fossil Fuel. Luckily, Squeaky could smell pollution extremely well and was able to follow the trail of gooey, horrible smoke that Fossil Fuel was leaving behind. Cautiously, using Zephyr's incredible, invisible shield they reached Fossil Fuel, just as she was about to zap away Brighton's glorious wind farm with her magic wand. With a second to spare, using his phenomenal Hoover Zephyr sucked the magic wand away from the Queen's hand and recycled it into new PE kits for Brighton School children. Queen Fossil Fuel was horrified and devastated and started crying like a baby. Without her magic wand she could not make more fossil fuel and the fossil fuel will soon run out. As Zephyr summoned the wind towards the wind farm, Queen Fossil Fuel quickly disappeared into the iridescent Brighton sunset never to be seen again.

From that day onwards, fossil fuel farms started closing across the world and more wind farms were built. Zephyr and Squeaky continued to patrol the skies and summon the winds into the wind farms. Zephyr and Squeaky became world heroes because they had saved the planet from Queen Fossil Fuel and her horrid fossil fuels.